

Be a FEMA Reservist

Help Disaster Survivors

Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) Reservists directly support disaster survivors who need help getting back on their feet. They are a paid workforce employed on a temporary, on-call, and intermittent basis to help citizens, first responders, and communities impacted by disasters. Reservists are FEMA's main workforce during emergencies and disasters, and can deploy anywhere within the United States and its territories.

Duties Include:

- Directly assist survivors and communities impacted by disasters by providing information and access to FEMA's Individual Assistance programs.
- Help survivors understand and apply for disaster assistance through FEMA and other partners.
- Provide customer service and step-by-step guidance to survivors.
- Coordinate and provide referrals to disaster recovery partners inside and outside FEMA, other federal agencies, voluntary organizations, and faith-based organizations.

For questions, or to submit a resume for consideration, please contact IA-nationalreservist@fema.dhs.gov.

FEMA

The United States Government does not discriminate in employment on the basis of race, color, religion, sex (including pregnancy and gender identity), national origin, political affiliation, sexual orientation, marital status, disability, genetic information, age, membership in an employee organization, retaliation, parental status, military service, or other non-merit factor.